PARLIAMENT MEETING ON WEDNESDAY

Premier Announces Personnel of Ministry

CAREFULLY CHOSEN

Communists Organize Resistance to Government

Following several weeks of activity, during which careful consideration was given to the many college interests deserving representation in the new government, the leader of the Constitutional Party last night announced the personnel of his ministry, given below. In a statement last night, the Premier said that the best interests of the student body as a whole had been considered in the selection of the Cabinet.

Although a number of important posts have been allotted to lawyers, men from Arts, Commerce, Science, and Medicine have been given portfolios which they are specially qualified to hold.

The leader of the new government also stated that a whirlwind campaign in favour of his party will soon be under way, and that his many supporters will strain every nerve to remain in power on Wednesday night.

A Cabinet meeting will be held in the Union the beginning of next week, to decide on measures which will be brought in at the coming session. Other matters of importance to the Constitutional party will also be discussed.

In respect to the rumors concerning the new Communist Party, the Premier declared that his government would not interfere unless the new party attempted to overthrow constituted authority by violence.

The meeting of the Mock Parliament next Wednesday, the thirteenth of December, in the ball room of the Union promises to be a very interesting session, and students are assured of a most instructive time along Parliamentary lines.

The following men compose the Cabinet:

Prime Minister and President of the Council—Rt. Hon. V. Barre.

Minister of Finance—Hon. H. O'Hagan.

Minister of Militia and Defence—Gen. Hon. Sir W. B. Brewster, B. W. & F.

Secretary of State—Hon. D. R. Anderson.

Minister of Railways and Canals—Hon. O. L. McCullough.

Minister of Public Works—Hon. B. C. Rochester.

Postmaster-General—Hon. J. Robinson.

Minister of Justice—Hon. H. Batslow.

Solicitor-General—Hon. W. F. Macdonald.

Minister of Education—Hon. N.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT AT R. V. COLLEGE

Miss F. D'Amour, Pianist,

WELL RECEIVED

Miss F. James Sang Two
Mendelssohn Numbers

The first of the popular Orchestral concerts for this season, of the McGill Conservatorium of Music took place last evening in the Convocation Hall of the R.V.C., before a large and most appreciative audience.

Under the able directorship of Dr. Perrin the orchestra showed themselves up to their usual high standard. In the first piece—the Symphony in E flat by Mozart—the wind instruments showed to an especially fine advantage in contrast to the lighter and quicker passages for strings. The symphony passed through all the stages of brilliancy, then restlessness, then ending in a wonderful finale characterised by simplicity.

Miss Francoise d'Amour played two charming pianoforte solos; Glazounow's Nocturne, with the usual solemnity; and "Leux d'Eau," by M. Ravel, the rippling movement of which was especially suited to Miss d'Amour's touch.

One of the most interesting features of the programme followed—"Suite de Pieces," by Purcell, which are rarely heard now. No attempt had been

ELIMINATION BOUTS HELD LAST NIGHT

Wrestlers Stage Contests in the Union

GOOD PROGRAM

Almost All the Competitors Evenly Matched

The Interfaculty and Class Wrestling eliminations continued in the Ballroom of the Union yesterday afternoon, and provided the best bill of wrestling seen yet in any of these trials. All three mats were in use for the whole period, one being devoted to the use of those practising for eliminations, and the other two to those in the actual elimination bouts.

The first bout between Delormier and Brown, of Science, in the 125-lb. class proved to be the closest and in its overtime stages the fastest of the evening. The two Science competitors were more evenly matched than any other couple, and when time was called at the end of a nine-minute period without a fall, or any indication of a winner, Referee Mathews called for a three minute overtime period to determine who should be the aspirant for higher laurels. Delormier started off with a rush, but tired badly near the end of the nine-minute period. The rest before the overtime period freshened him and he was able to pin Brown's shoulders to the mat in one minute and thirty seconds.

Evans and Mills, in the 125-lb. class, also of Science, showed a partiality to illegal face holds, but despite this gave a good exhibition. Miller was lucky to get one fall, and thus when time was up was declared winner.

Reid, of Medicine, put up a game exhibition against his more experienced rival in the 145-lb. class, Clement, also of Medicine. Clement did not score a fall for four minutes, but gained his second fall 40 seconds later, when Reid, weakened from the first fall, was unable to struggle out of a half Nelson.

Connor and Fisher, of Medicine, 145 lbs., showed a little more willingness to mix it up than their predecessors. Fisher gained a fall in two minutes, and clinched the honours when Connor's shoulders met the mat four minutes later.

Stevens scored a win over Donnelly in the 145 lb. class, when after some lively grappling, Stevens gained a fall from his adversary in four minutes and fifty-five seconds.

Ross and McMillan, of Science, furnished the second no-fall bout of the evening. McMillan showed a marked unwillingness to break away when off the mat. Both competitors were almost exhausted at full time, but Referee Mathews awarded the decision to Ross.

Perhaps the most interesting exhibition was that of

THE ELECTIONS

Votes are being cast today for the election of the Faculty Representatives on the Students' Council. It is hoped that not only the best men will be successful, but that the election will witness the largest ballot cast in the history of McGill. The student body saw and heard the various candidates at the open meeting of the Council on Wednesday afternoon. Those who did not previously know the men were given an opportunity to judge them, which should guide students in their choice.

Questions of great importance were thoroughly discussed at Wednesday's meeting, and the majority who attended left the Union realising more fully how numerous and weighty are the problems constantly before the Council. Two representatives from each faculty, save that of Law, whose nominee was elected by acclamation, are running today. The many excellent qualities of all candidates should make the fight intensely interesting. In the past, students have not fully appreciated the importance of elections, a comparatively small number of men usually turning out. Indifference is one of the most crying faults in the world today. College indifference is disastrous to the well-being and continued progress of the university. It is the duty of each and every student to make it a special point of casting his vote. The elections are taking place in the buildings of the faculties from nine o'clock in the morning until six this evening. Let no one fail in his duty to cast a vote.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Rare would be the paper, indeed, that contained no editorial column. Each journal devotes certain space in its "make-up" to comment upon topics of concern to its readers; in the professional press, in many instances this exposition of sentiments cannot be taken as truly representative of those of its subscribers. They are much more apt to represent the stand taken by the management of the organization of which the editor is symbolical. They are inclined to verge towards propaganda devoted to the interests with which the journal is most keenly associated. In a college publication, however, such as the McGill Daily, the viewpoints brought forth in the Editorial Column, while certainly expressive of the official judgments of the Students' Council, or that body responsible for its publication—if they fail in that it is the duty of the Editor to resign—at the same time purport to be, insofar as possible, a consensus of the beliefs of the undergraduates of whom it is the accepted voice.

Absolute accomplishment of this latter is, of course, not always attainable, the diversities and antagonisms of student convictions being difficult of adequate centralization. Granting the representative character of the views put forth in a student Editorial Column, infallibility of argument or of the decisions reached is not claimed; both are open to exception, remembering that such sets forth the official student version. All that is sought after is a sane and definite expression of policy: if an editorial column succeeds in establishing that it may be deemed to have achieved its endeavour.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

The Editor,

McGill Daily:

Sir,—With reference to the letter of Mr. C. J. Tidmarsh, which appeared in the Daily on December 5th last, I would like to make the following observations.

The article purporting to be an interview with the Principal of Queen's University, appeared in the Toronto Star and the Toronto Telegram. A few days after its appearance, Mr. Philpott and others called my attention to it, and showed me a clipping from one of the above-mentioned papers. I told them that I did not believe Principal Taylor ever made such a statement, and I asked them to procure for me two copies of the issue in which the interview appeared.

Immediately upon receipt of these copies I wrote to Principal Taylor and called his attention to them. He replied at once repudiating ever having made the statement reflecting on Mr. Philpott and on McGill, and in a conversation over the telephone immediately following the receipt of his letter, he further informed me that the correspondent in Kingston of the Toronto Telegram and of the Toronto Star was to blame. This correspondent wrote to me and acknowledged responsibility. I then wrote to Principal Taylor and to the correspondent, saying that I considered it their duty to see to it that the Toronto Telegram and the Toronto Star published a statement that the alleged interview with Principal Taylor was incorrect, and that it did an injustice to Mr. Philpott and to McGill University.

On November 16th last, the following article appeared in the Toronto Telegram:—
PHILPOTT CASE CLEARED.
Everything is serene.

Principal Taylor and Sir Arthur Currie Exchange Letters, and "Gossip" is Quieted.

Kingston, Nov. 16 (Special).—Towards the end of October, when there was a stir over men joining the college Rugby teams, and questionings took place over relations of the new men to the colleges, a report was sent out intimating that Principal Taylor had said in an interview that Philpott of the McGill team, had his board and fees paid. This led to an exchange of letters between the college heads, and quickly Principal Taylor repudiated the statement. He never made it. It was found that the state-

"McGILL-NITE" SOON AT ALLEN THEATRE

Mandolin Club Will Play on December 13th

An early start was given to all clubs by the "Pep Rally" Smoker at the Union at the beginning of the session, and one of them to benefit by this novel idea was the Mandolin Club. This club has improved by leaps and bounds, not only in its membership, but, after a series of hard practices by the members under its able director, Mr. Peate, in the style and ease in rendering the marches and popular music of the present time.

In introducing a "McGill Nite" at the Allen Theatre, on Wednesday, Dec. 13th, at 8.30, the club, under the name of McGill Mandolin and Banjo Orchestra, will be in its highest form, and will display to the public that McGill has a musical club of which all students are justly proud. There is no other organization of this kind known in Eastern Canada, and those who are fortunate to obtain a seat during this performance, will undoubtedly be well repaid, for besides the Mandolin Club's programme, the management have secured an excellent night at the Allen Theatre, at the conclusion of the show, the club felt quite confident that their engagement would be a great success.

tion predict the largest number of votes ever polled in the university will be counted after to-day's voting.

L. H. WEBSTER

Candidate from Medicine
Born at Marie, Prince Edward Island, in 1894. Educated at Prince of Wales College, and entered McGill with the class of Medicine '24. Overseas service: Two years and eight months in France with the Canadian Field Artillery. Activities at McGill: President of the Maritime Club 1920-21; Junior Dance Committee 1920-21. My athletic activities do not extend beyond that of a minor place in class hockey.

PLATFORM

As most undergraduates must realize it is practically impossible for one to enunciate a definite, clear cut policy, but if elected, it shall be my aim to help carry on the work of those who so successfully conducted the executive work of the Students' Society in the past, and to urge the betterment of student life and activities at Old McGill.

INTER-CLASS TEAMS FOR BASKETBALL

It was decided at a meeting of the basketball executive yesterday that instead of entering five teams in the Montreal City League, only four would be entered this year. One of the Junior teams are to be dropped.

A new inter-class basketball league is to be formed, consisting of representative teams from the freshman and sophomore years in each faculty. The league will be made up of 10 teams, two from each of the following faculties: Science, Medicine, Arts, Commerce and Dentistry.

Suitable hours have been obtained for the games: Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 6-7, in Molson Hall; Tuesday and Thursday, 6-7, in the Montreal High School. The league will continue for six weeks or two months, and each team will have lots of opportunity to show their wares. It is thought by the executives that by dropping this junior team and forming this new league will greatly stimulate interest in basketball in the college.

All representatives of teams mentioned above are asked to attend a meeting to-night in the Union, at 5 p.m., when final plans will be discussed. Make sure your representative is at the meeting.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT AT R. V. COLLEGE

made to modernize the harmonies, and the quaintness of their settings furnished a different note to the evening's programme.

The following were the pieces contained in the suite:
Sarabande in A major.....Largo
Allemande in D major.....Alleg. Mod.
Ayre in F major.....Lento
Hornpipe in D major.....Alleg. Spiritoso
Ayre in A major.....Largo
Cauzonet in A minor.....Allegro

The full, rich tones of Miss Frances James showed excellent voice control and great recitative powers and delighted the audience. The selections were from Mendelssohn—"O, the dastard, he has forever fled from me" and the Aria, "Ah, return, ye days so golden." Mr. Walter Clapperton played the accompaniments.
Miss Audrey Read displayed perfect control of her violin besides displaying a colourful tone in her phrasing. Of her pieces, a waltz by Brahms-Hockstein, and Londonderry Air were the favourites; the simplicity of the last being effect in the extreme.

The concert ended with two selections played by the orchestra. Lubomirsky's "Danse Orientale" was a great success, the cello and bassoon being heard above a pizzicato bass. The second was Glinka's "Souvenir d'une Nuit d'été à Madrid," and was one of the best and most brilliant pieces played during the evening—the termination of an evening which could not have been any better.

NEW EVENTS FOR THE COMING MEET

Interscholastics to Be Held Next May

There was much discussion about the coming Interscholastic Track Meet last night at a meeting of the Track Club in the Music Room of the Union. There were several changes made from last year's meet in respect to both the age limit of participants and concerning the solution of a few minor events of the meet. The age limit was raised from eighteen to nineteen while it was decided to eliminate altogether the low hurdles in favor of the high hurdles. The javelin, the discus and the hammer throw will also add to the number of events for this year.

As usual, the meet will be held on the fourth Saturday of May, 1923, in the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium.

The following events are now on schedule:

Junior Class I

tion of the programme to watch was the tilt between Davis and Adams, in the 158-lb. class. Adams stood the pace better than Davis, and scored his first fall in three minutes and twenty-five seconds. About sixty seconds later Adams secured an effective scissors hold at the edge of the mat, and partially winded Davis. Davis was consequently unable to offer great resistance when Adams twisted his shoulders to touch the mat in four minutes and forty-five seconds.

In the only bout which assumed the appearance of an Interfaculty contest, Cotman, of Commerce, scored a win over Somerville, of Second Year Arts. Cotman gained his first fall in one minute and the decision when he downed Somerville for the second time in three minutes.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB INTERESTING EVENT

Fascisti to Be Discussed This Evening at Hall

To-night, at 8.15 p.m., in the Assembly Room of Strathcona Hall, McGill students will be given an opportunity of increasing their knowledge about the Fascisti, their methods, government and future policy. This meeting ought to prove of interest to everybody, as much has been said about the Fascisti, and little is known about them, especially as the stand that Premier Mussolini is to-day taking at the Lausanne Peace Conference is threatening to chance European politics, and consequently world politics.

The Cosmopolitan Club—under whose auspices the meet has been arranged—is very fortunate in having procured M. Latoni, who is an authority on Italian politics, as the speaker for the evening. The Italian Consul was requested to give this address, but orders from his government forbid him doing so, recommending, however, the above speaker.

Several other Italian members of the Club, who are anti-Fascistic, will give Mr. Latoni a stiff argument. A well-known radical from the Faculty of Law has also expressed his desire "of taking a slam at the Fascisti." A riot will not take place, as several policemen have been commissioned to be on hand.

The meeting will be thrown open for discussion. Mr. Latoni is ready to answer any questions that may be asked.

The musical programme that has been arranged is of a high order. Club members will perform, and it has been arranged that several talented musicians from the Italian colony come and give those present a treat.

PLATFORM

If elected as Science representative on the Students' Council:

1.—I shall endeavour to continue the excellent policy of the present Council in the same administration of University undergraduate activities, with a view to the continued well-being of all students at McGill and with particular reference to the Science Faculty in the important relation it bears to the welfare of the University as a whole.

2.—I shall endeavour in the matter of finance to aid in increasing the revenue of the Council to meet the expenditures, rather than to decrease the expenditures, as the latter action will curtail the activities of many minor athletic clubs. Three sources of Council revenue have shown decreases this year—the total universal fee due to lesser registration, the gate receipts at rugby games here are less than the Centennial year, and the "Daily" advertising. The "Daily" is the only one of these agencies of which there is possibility of immediate improvement to meet the immediate need; it will be my purpose to aid in that improvement in every way that lies in my power.

3.—I shall endeavour to give every encouragement to inter-faculty athletics, which have proven so deservedly popular and have been such excellent sources of supply for men for the University teams.

ROBERT F. OGILVY.

CONCERN OF COMMUNITY
IN INDUSTRY

(Concluded.)

"The social view, moreover, imposes on all members of the community some responsibility for industrial achievement. We can no longer evade the obligation of every citizen both in relation to the load of productive work which he imposes on others and in relation to the service which he renders as a substitute for active participation in the industrial process. We must consider who should be excused from work—the man who has made his fortune, the girl who lives at home, the man who has inherited a fortune, or the members of the learned professions? Should occupations be valued according to their value to society or according to the private economic advantage which they assure to us? We must consider in this connection the obligations which rest upon a leisured class and on those who have had a college training. What difference is there between the coal miner who goes on strike, despite the suffering imposed on other people, and those who accept their coal supply without a thought about the conditions under which it is produced? What contribution does the mother or homemaker make to the industrial life? In what way should remuneration come to her—as a dote from a kindly husband or as earned income?"

"If we assent to the doctrine that industry should be run for the community, we must next ask how the community may assert its supreme interest and how its obligation may be discharged. We must ask whether state ownership, state control or state regulation of the means of production ensures the constant supply of the needed commodities. Would the state or the local municipality be the better organ for such tasks? Since industry is one of the most important elements in the social structure, would its work be more harmoniously related to society if parliamentary representation were based in part or wholly on occupational groups? We should consider the extent to which British parliamentary growth was based on class representation, and note the prediction of the Tories that the abolition of the old system by the Reform Act of 1832 would involve the dominance of parliament by one class, namely, the business man. Should we look back for a cure of the present distrust of parliaments or should we look for some new organization of authority which might be to industry what the law and medical societies are in the control of their respective services to society?"

"The dependence of all communities on the material basis of life creates an imperative demand for access to raw materials and for adequate markets in which to sell the surplus of one commodity in exchange for another which cannot be produced at home. This carries industrial activity into the sphere of international relations. Dare any national government responsible for the future of its people be remiss in securing to them proper supplies of essential commodities such as oil? If oil be necessary to the welfare of all peoples, what is the duty of governments which control access to oil deposits? Should they be accused of sordidness if they seek to ensure supplies to their own future population? What obligation devolves on other governments which have no such access, and how shall they provide for their future population? If raw materials are to be regarded as wealth held by national governments in trust for humanity, what shall we as Canadians do with our approximate monopoly of the world's supply of nickel? Is there any means by which national security may be obtained without adopting a policy of exclusion towards other peoples? Can any nation maintain a high standard of living for its manual workers apart from the co-operative action of other nations?"

"The broadening of our conception of industry and of our responsibility for industry places on those who have received the educational boons of college life, some special obligation with regard to the formation and organization of public opinion. It has been shown conclusively that the recent steel strike in the United States was brought to collapse by a public opinion formed by a press campaign now known to have been mendacious and fraudulent. How can undergraduates and graduates aid the press in its task of informing the people? How can they aid the churches in organizing a Christian attitude to industry and industrial disputes? In view of the tremendous increase in man's control over physical forces, we should consider what steps should be taken to secure a proportionate development of the sense of responsibility in return for the use of the power to control? Are changes required in the training of lawyers and judges if the law of property in relation to industrial organization is to be interpreted in accordance with realities and not merely with fictitious interests? What responsibility will rest upon medical men to prevent such speeding up of production as will ultimately menace the vitality and nervous ability of the race? What changes are required in our elementary school curriculum if industry is to be presented from the first as a means of social service rather than a game of passing on the loss and gaining the profit?"

EXCELLENT SHOW IS GIVEN BY M.S.P.E.

Programme of Music, Dancing and Comedy

Strathcona Hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience for the performance of "Bubbles" last night. Everyone was feeling fine, the music was good, the dialogue excellent, and the fair performers appeared to enjoy the performance as much as their audience did.

These shows are very popular with McGill students, judging from the large number present. There was an exceedingly appreciative group of men in the first row. As the show moved on these grew more and more excited and reached a great state of enthusiasm.

One of the most popular acts of the whole performance was a song sung by Margaret Beer, who represented a very sophisticated lady of the world.

This was followed by a Trio dance by Dorothy Burrell, Estelle Lawford, and Lois Ibbotson. There was then a popular song about "kissing," and a duet love-song by Gertrude Lehan and Evelyn Perry, which were both duly approved by the men present.

Another song which took very well was one sung by Eleanor Powell, about a poor little girl trapped in a den with a big bear, who said nothing but "Woo." This was so well received it had to be repeated.

After the intermission there was a short playlet. The cast was:

Pierrot E. Lawford

Pierrette Ethel Powell

Maker of Dreams . . K. Gilmour

This little play is well known, and was played remarkably well. K. Gilmour, as Maker of Dreams, was especially good. The story is how Pierrette, who loves Pierrot, is given his love in return, after the Maker of Dreams has shown Pierrot how worthy the little Pierrette is of his love. This play was one of the best, if not the outstanding feature of the whole show.

Evelyn Snyder gave an interpretation of a doll in both song and dance. She was accompanied by a chorus of Pierrots and Pierrettes. She was duly wound and unwound, and muttered her words in true doll-like manner.

The show was excellent, and one can only hope "Bubbles" will be followed by another equally as entertaining.

Much credit is due to the chorus, and especially to those who aided at the piano, and last, if not least, to the two brave males who attended to the curtain.

The money we get from the ads. keep many of your activities going. Show the advertisers that you appreciate their assistance by patronizing their stores and no others, and let them know you are doing it.

PLATFORM

It is my intention as the Arts nominee for the Students' Council to uphold, if elected, to the best of my ability the interests of the Faculty of Arts; to encourage student agitation for the remodelling of the Arts building and the construction of the gymnasium and dormitories at an early date; to further inter-class and inter-faculty athletics and other forms of competition as a means of developing material for the college teams, and the formation of an intercollegiate indoor baseball league. I will support economy in all forms of student activity.

FINE IMPROMPTU
SPEECHES GIVEN

Miss Massey-Bayly and Miss Griffin Win Prizes

At a meeting of the Delta Sigma Society held yesterday, many interesting two minute talks were given. After the reading of the minutes, a letter was read from the Queen's debaters expressing their thanks for the kind entertainment and hospitality shown them last week-end. Then the President, Miss Foster, after explaining the purpose of the meeting, namely, the Impromptu Speaking, called upon the first speaker, Miss Dorothy Cross. Slips of paper were drawn, containing a subject, and while one girl prepared her speech, another was delivering hers.

The speeches were on various topics of interest, such as "Myself," about which Miss Foster had to talk; "Slang," against the use of which Miss K. James gave a strong plea; Table Manners, Christmas Shopping, Gifts, The First Dance, Dancing, Candle Light vs. Electric Light, Circle and Corners, were some of the topics. Miss Matheson cleverly dealt with "Circles," and Miss K. Perrin gave a humorous talk on "Having One's Photo Taken." To mention all would take too long, as twenty-two speeches were given.

Mrs. Irwin gave the decision of the judges, announcing the winners to be Miss E. Massey-Bayly, who gave a cleverly prepared and well-expressed talk on "Puns," and Miss W. Griffin, who spoke on "Magnetism," in an interesting manner. Special mention was made of Miss D. Teed, who gave an original talk on "Moving Day." In giving the judges' decision, Mrs. Irwin offered very helpful criticism and advice to all amateur speakers, and expressed her appreciation of the ingenuity and courage of all who had spoken. The other judges who so kindly assisted were Mr. Noad and Miss Nichol.

MECHANICAL CLUB
MEETS ON MONDAYProf. Roberts to Give Talk on "Bearing Lubrication"

The Mechanical Club has been quite active this session, several interesting trips having been held, but no evening meetings so far. The members are promised a treat next Monday, when Prof. A. R. Roberts will give a talk.

This subject is one about which many people say a great deal but know very little; here is a chance to hear Prof. Roberts, who is recognized by those who know as one of the foremost authorities on lubrication on this continent. This important field of investigation seems to have been neglected, and to-day it is impossible to obtain accurate data to guide engineers in the design of bearings, and in the choice of lubricants. After five years of arduous research, Prof. Roberts has perfected a machine for this study. It is quite unique, and from it valuable information is being obtained at present.

Prof. Roberts will explain this machine and give some interesting and valuable information about lubrication in general and of the automobile engine in particular.

The Club extends an invitation to non-members outside the faculty to hear about this important piece of research work which is going on in the Engineering Building, just as in the days of Colander and Nicholson.

Refreshment will be served.

MUSICALE IN THE UNION ON SUNDAYVery Entertaining Program
Promised

There will be a musicale in the Union Lounge Room next Sunday at 4 p.m. To all indications everything points to a very enjoyable time for all, and with such men playing as Eddie Sherrard, L. M. Harvey and R. A. Moore, a programme is promised which will certainly be very highly entertaining.

All students are cordially invited to be present.

GILBERT-SULLIVAN
OPERA NEXT SUNDAY

During the two weeks commencing on Monday, Dec. 11, the students of McGill will have an opportunity of spending a most profitable and pleasant afternoon or evening at His Majesty's Theatre, where the famous operatic comedian, Mr. De Wolf Hopper, and his distinguished company, will present a few of Gilbert and Sullivan's delightful operas, "The Mikado," "H.M.S. Pinafore," "Iolanthe," and "The Pirates of Penzance."

Much could be said about the splendid operatic qualities of these plays, and of the wonderful humour they contain. Sir W. S. Gilbert's powers as a playwright cannot be denied; he occupies in the present dramatic world a position somewhat akin to that which Shakespeare occupied in his time, also the quality and rhythm of the music produced in these plays by Sir Arthur Sullivan cannot be excellent. A student's literary education cannot be called complete until he has a knowledge of these dramatic operas.

His Majesty's will give special attention to procure satisfactory seats for students should they be desired. They are requested however, to apply as soon as possible as the tickets are rapidly being sold out.

There is no reason for any merchant to advertise if he is going to get the patronage without it. Help those who help us.

J. C. McCLURE SHOWS
SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

The numerous friends of J. C. McClure, M.D. '23, will be glad to learn that he has regained consciousness and his condition is slightly improved though still regarded as critical. The student body wish McClure a speedy recovery.

BUBBLES.

Show the advertisers that their money is not floating away like bubbles when they display their values in the college paper. Let them know you come from McGill, when you are buying the little things you need.
